

CHAPMAN Yes, but we can't really talk about it. (Laughs.) Not too long ago we had a guest start acting out a seizure and then actually had a panic attack and we had to call EMTs. It happened so many times that we had to stop shooting. And we had an actor — I won't tell you who — who had an intense pus aversion and literally could not do a scene with it, even though it was fake.

Can you tease anything else about what we can expect from the rest of season six?

CHAPMAN We have a hot doctor coming. (Laughs.)
